Disclaimer

This presentation has been prepared by Bank Millennium for its stakeholders for information purpose only. The information presented in this presentation should be read together with other information published by the Bank (on www.bankmillennium.pl), in particular financial and current reports.

Financial data presented hereby is on consolidated Bank Millennium Group level.

Data is based on published financial reports with following pro-forma adjustments:

- The Bank altered its presentation of margin on derivatives that is not meeting formal hedge accounting principles and from Jan 1, 2021 all margin from derivatives is included in the reported NII.*
- According to current understanding of IFRS9 standard, small part of credit portfolio is fair valued through P&L. As fair value adjustment of this portfolio has similar economic effect to impairment adjustment, in this presentation it was excluded from 'total operating income' and added to cost of risk line.*
- Starting from 3Q22 a part of costs of amicable settlements with FX-mortgage borrowers is presented in 'results from modifications' and these costs are not included in the cost of credit risk in this presentation.*
- Cost of credit holidays is presented in interest income/NII. For comparison purposes, in this presentation NII/NIM and other figures are presented also before such an impact.*

This presentation should not be treated as a recommendation to purchase securities, an offer, invitation or a solicitation of an offer to purchase, invest or conclude any transaction on securities, in particular with respect to securities of Bank Millennium.

Macroeconomic environment (1/4)

Data from the Polish economy

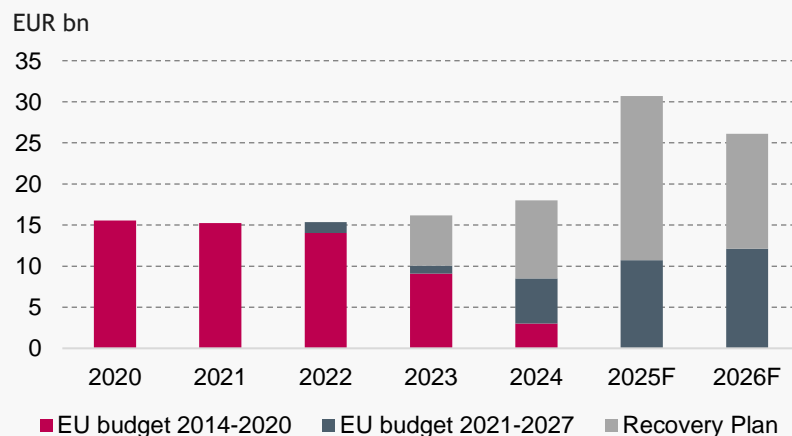

GDP dynamics in Poland and Eurozone

- The beginning of 2025 was a period of growth of the Polish economy, although it turned out to be slightly slower than expected a quarter ago. According to the Bank's estimates, GDP increased in 1Q25 by 3.2% y/y vs. 3.4% y/y in 4Q24.
- Consumption was the main pillar of the growth. However, its growth rate is expected to go down to ca. 2.6% y/y from 3.5% y/y a quarter earlier, due to slower growing real wages. In addition, in a highly uncertain environment, consumers continued to be cautious in their spending, despite the still strong labour market, with the registered unemployment rate at 5.3% in Mar'25, similar to a year earlier.

EU funds inflow to Poland

Economic sentiment indicators in Poland

- Outlook for the Polish economy in next quarters deteriorated because of negative effects of the trade wars on the global growth. According to the Bank, GDP growth in 2025 will amount to 3.5% vs. 2.9% in 2024, and the main driver should be household consumption supported by rising wages in real terms and accumulated savings.
- Investments in fixed assets, should also have a positive impact on growth due to project co-financed by the National Recovery Plan and the European Union's cohesion policy. However, the weak recovery in the euro area, as in 2024, is likely to limit the growth potential of the domestic economy.

- Situation in the labour market was relatively stable in 1Q25. Unemployment rate stood at very low level (5.3% in March 2025), while wage dynamics slowed because of smaller increase of minimum wage and lower demand for labour.
- CPI inflation increased slightly in 1Q25 and amounted on average to 4.9% y/y vs. 4.8% y/y in 4Q25. These data turned out to be significantly lower than the forecast, mainly due to the revision of weights in CPI index by the Central Statistical Office. Elevated inflation was maintained by supply-side factors – a quick increase in energy and food prices.

- The coming quarters will continue to be a time of great uncertainty. This will be influenced by various geopolitical factors, such as the rise of protectionism in international trade, changes in fiscal and migration policies around the world, armed conflicts, and political stability issues in some countries.
- The effects of changes in American trade policy have global reach, but due to the links in goods' trade, the impact of higher US tariffs on European economies, including Poland, will probably be significantly smaller than, for example, on China, other Asian economies, or Canada and Mexico.

Macroeconomic environment (3/4)

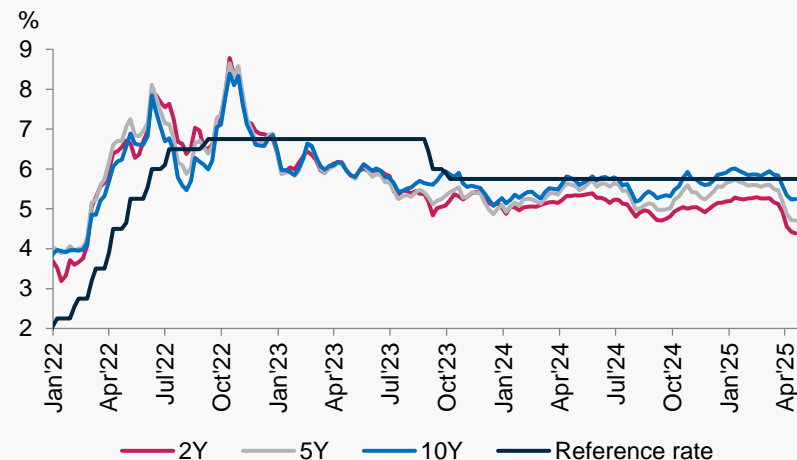

FX evolution

PLN swap curve

Yields of Polish bonds

WIBOR 3M and market expectations

- The zloty was stronger in 1Q25 approaching 4.12 vs. the euro amid optimistic outlook on European economy after German fiscal spending plan announcement and hopes for resolving conflict in the Ukraine. This happened despite gradual dollar appreciation in the international markets. US tariffs increases resulted in zloty and dollar weakening. The Bank's forecasts assume stabilisation of the Polish currency in the next quarters supported by solid GDP growth, still high rate differential vs. the euro are with large inflows of EU funds offsetting some deterioration in the current account.

- Market rates recorded small declines in 1Q25 with MPC keeping rates unchanged with hawkish stance. In April NBP Governor communicated a dovish pivot pointing to a lower CPI path. This resulted in larger decline in market rates. On May 7, the MPC cut rates by 50 bps, as expected. The Bank assumes interest rate cuts from the current level of 5.25% to 4.50% at the end of 2025 and to 3.50% at the end of 2026. Expansionary fiscal policy and low unemployment will be arguments for a smaller scale of NBP rates cuts in 2025 than priced in by the market (until year-end by 175 bp).

Macroeconomic environment (4/4)

Growth rate of deposits and loans

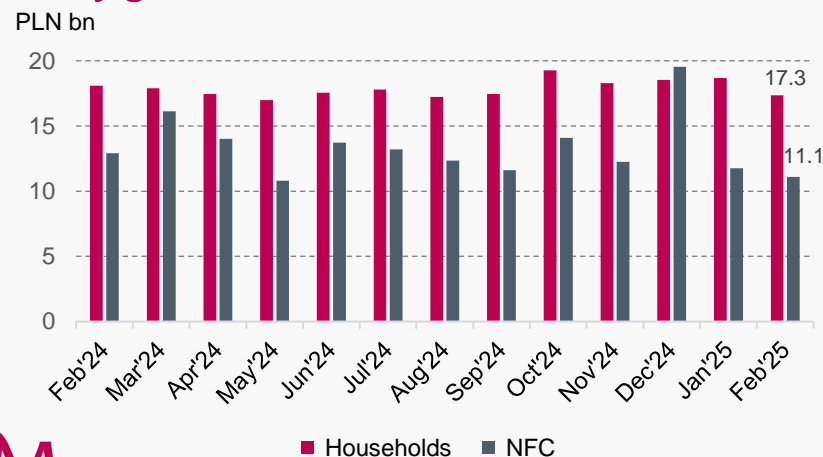

Growth rate of deposits

- High interest rates were conducive in 1Q25 to further rebuilding of household savings. The value of their deposits in the banking sector in Mar'25 was PLN 28.9 bn higher than at the end of 2024. On the other hand, deposits of non-financial corporations decreased by PLN 19.5 bn q/q, which is in line with seasonal changes observed in the past.
- Despite this decline, the y/y increase in the total value of deposits in the banking sector was still fast. It stood at 10.2% y/y in Mar'25 vs. 8.9% y/y in Dec'24. In the case of loans, in the period from Jan-Feb'25, a decrease in the value of new contracts was recorded.

Newly granted loans

Newly granted loans to households

- In 1Q25, overall credit creation in the economy was stable taking into consideration nominal values. While annual dynamics of newly granted loans to households and non-financial companies has moderated. Subdued demand for loans from corporate sector reflects low investments activity.
